NOW FOR THE SENATE!

The Assembly has done nobly. By an emphatic vote of 74 to 18 it last night passed THE EVENING WORLD Children's bill. That decisive action is the brightest spot in the Legislative record of 1889.

SHIFTING RESPONSIBILITY

THE CHARITY COMMISSIONERS TESTIFYING

TO-DAY.

Charles H. Hoswell is the who is made responsi-all that was wrong in with the contract of John F. Daw son to construct the crib bulkhead on Hart's

The case with which all responsibility was shifted to his shoulders by the Commissioners of Charities and Corrections in giving their testimony to-day was remarkable.

Commissioner H. H. Porter was the first witcounts this morning.

He swore that he was inducted into office but a day or two before the making of the contract with Dawson, That Commissioner Brennan took entire charge of the matter so far as the entire charge of the matter so far as the Board was concerned and that he took it for granted from Engineer Haswell's report that the provisions of the contract were fully carried out.

Secretary Britton, of the Charities Commission, testined that there is no resolution on the minutes of the Board relieving Contractor Dawson from furnishing the stone for the bulkhead as required by the contract.

Mr. Britton could not remember that he had directed Warden Dunphy to give every assistance in his power to Contractor Dawson in the work of constructing the crib, even when a letter in his own handwriting was shown him.

Commissioner Brennan, at whom this investigation is aimed, next took the stand and immegation is a standard to the standard standard to Well's shoulders.

He did not know until recently that the city had lost any money through the contract with Dawson.

The stone, he said, had been furnished by the city on the recommendation of the ensineer, who said it would be for the interest of the city to have this done.

Commissioner Brennan disclaimed any connaction with the matter further than any either member of the Board, although he acknowledged that there is no record to show that the Board as a whole took any action with reference to it.

The Commissioner said that the mason work on Blackwell's Island, which was removed to make filling for the crib, was taken down for the purpose of beautifying the grounds, and would never be rebuilt.

He disclaimed any sequaintanceship, much less intimacy, with Contractor Dawson, but saknowledged that he was intimate with Dawson's bondsmen, Sol Bayies and John Matthews.

The Commissioners and Lawyer De Lancey Nicoll, whom they have retained to assist them in this investigation, having exhausted their list of interrogatories. Commissioner Brennan took occasion to make a statement.

He said that he had not followed Mr. Croker to Alken, S. C., to plead for his retention in

He said that he had not followed Mr. Croker to Aiken, S. C., to plead for his retention in office, and denied having asked Mrs. John Kelly to intercede with the powers that be in his behalf. He concluded:

Things Getting in Shape for the

The Naval Parade Will Be Nearly Six Miles in Length.

Admiral Porter Appoints His Staff-West Point Cadets to Be in Line.

Now that Gen. Schofield and Admiral Porter have issued their final general orders for the military and naval parades, everybody connected with the management of the Centennial selebration feels a sense of relief that the hard est part of the work in preparing for the three days' festivities has been watis factorily disposed

The plans for the military demonstration have been perfected to the smallest details, and if Schofield's orders are faithfully carried out there is not only no danger of any confusion or trouble in forming the line, but the parade will be the grandest and most impressive affair of the kind that has ever been attempted.

There will be in all about 50,000 soldiers and officers in line, and it is estimated that there will be sufficient to form a column twice as long as the line of march, which is between five and five and one-half miles in length. The forces of army, marine corps and navy will form the lead arily, marine corps and havy will form the lead-ing division and head the column. The former will include the cavalry, infantry and artillery and will come first in the order named. Then will come the militia troops of the various States ranging in the order of their adoption of the Constitution and admission to the Union, and the Territories in the order of their organi-zation.

After these will come the Grand Army and Loyal Legion representations, which, in addi-tion to the 38,000 troops, regular and militia will make up the grand total of 50,000 men in line.

The procession, it is aunounced, will begin to move from the head of Wall street at Broadway by 10 o'clock. There has been some misunder-standing as to whether it would start before the literary exercises at the Sub-Treasury began or wait until they had been concluded. Gen Schofield's order is explicit on this point, for it says:

As soon as the President enters the Sub-Treasury after the religious sciences at St. Paul's, which will be concluded at about $4.5 \text{ A. M., the column will move at full distance up Broadway.

The line of march is up Broadway to Waverley.

concluded at about 9.45 a. M., the column will move at rull distance up Broadway.

The line of march is up Broadway to Waverley place, to Fifth avenue, to East Fourteenth street, to Fourth avenue, to East Eventeenth street, to Broadway, to East Fifteenth street, to Fifth avenue, to Twentieth street, when the column will be halted and formed against the east curb sil the way down to Pine street, in order to enable the President and guests to pass along the front of the line in review from Pine street to Madison Square, when the line of march will be resumed to Fifty-seventh street.

It is expected that the column will begin to pass the reviewing stand at Madison Square about noon, and that the time occupied by the whole procession in passing that point will be between four and five hours.

It all depends on the length of the services at St. Paul's Chapel whether or not the head of the column reaches Madison Square at the hour named.

If the programme is carried out in accordance.

named.

If the programme is carried out in accordance with the orders and there are no unducidelay, the whole procession will be over by 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

GEN. CRUGER CHIEF OF STAFF.

GEN. CRUGER CHIEF OF STAFF.

Gen. S. V. R. Cruger has been appointed Chief of Staff to Gen. Schofield, but it is to Col. S. E. Blount, the Chief Aide on Gen. Schofield's staff, that the credit is due for arranging the plan or the parade.

It has been decided that the naval fleet which will be and the column in the naval parade will be anchored off Ellis Island to the west of the channel when the President's boat Dispatch passes up between the double line of vessels with its convoy to the Wall street dock. The flarship Chicago will be at the head of the column, and will be followed by the Boston, flying the flag of the Secretary of the Navy, the Atlanta, Yorkown, Juniata, Yantic, Brooklyn and Rearsage following in the order named at a distance of 200 yards apart.

THE NAVAL PARADE SIX MILES LONG.

THE NAVAL PARADE SIX MILES LONG.

A large number of additional applications for places in the Naval Parade have been made during the past two days, and it is thought that the number of vessels in line on that day will exceed two hundred and fifty. This will insure a line over six miles in length, over two-thirds of which will be in double column.

Admiral Porter has appointed the following as members of his staft;
Captain Charles S. Norton, U. S. N.; Commander William R. Bridgman, U. S. N.; Lieutenant-Commander A. S. Show, U. S. N.; Captain L. N. Stoddard, U. S. R., (late U. S. N.); Aaron Vanderblif, (late U. The Admiral has also issued orders for the regulation of the naval brigade in the military parade, and general instructions have been given to all officers of the Navy and Marine Corps to appear in "special full dress" uniform during the three day's celebration at all times except when on shipboard, when they will wear "dress uniform."

WEST POINT CADETS. WEST POINT CADETS.

The 250 West Point cadets who will come to town on Tuesday by the Mary Powell will march in the parade with the army division of the regular troops.

Capt. William A. Kirtland will command the Naval Brigade and will select his aides.

THE RECEPTION AT WALL STREET.

Arrangements for the President's reception at Wall street have also been perfected. Col. Floyd Clarkson, who is Marshal of the event, has issued his orders appointing Major Tully McCrea, commanding Eatteries A. C. and L. of the Fith Regiment United States Artillery, to head the escort to the Equitable Building with the band of the regiment. They will form on the south side of Wall street in South.

Col. William C. Church will command a representation of the Loyal Legion; Col. W. P. Walton, a representation of post commanders of the G. A. R. (Fen. Tremaine, the Veteran Battain of the Seventh Regiment, with Cappa's Band; Gen. Gates, the veterans of the Fifth, Ninth. Eleventh, Thirteenth, Twenty-second, Twenty-third, Sixty-minth and Seventy-first regiments, with Gilmore's Band, and Major J. T. Riker, the Sons of the Revolution.

Major McCree's command will also have the right of the column on the march from the Equitable Building to the City Hall, where the second reception is to be given in the Governor's Room. The order also assigns positions for the various commands, both at the Equitable Building and at the City Hall.

Provisions have been made for accommodating most of the visiting troops in the armories, both in this city and Brooklyn, but a large number of them will have to find lodgings elsewhere. Several of the New England representations will be taken care of aboard the steamers which will bring them here.

Among the halls and stores which will be brought into requisition for this purpose during Centennial week are Wendel's Hall, Lyric Hall. Clarendon Hall, Madison Square Garden, Flerence Hall, Webster Hall, Everett Hall, Nisson Hall, the old United States Army bullding in Houston street, and several store lofts which have been engaged in the dry-goods district.

PRESIDENTIAL PLAGS BECEIVED TO-DAY.

The three Presidential flags which were made under the supervision of the Naval Department at Washington expressly for use during the coming celebration were received at the Committee's hoselquarters this morning.

They are the largest lags of this description ever made, and each one measures 17 by 10 feet. The ground material is of the finest dark blue bunding. Spread upon its centre field is the Presidential device, a spread eagle with displayed shield. Upon the shield are the Stars and Stripes in red and white.

The three flags will be displayed during the celebration upon the Sub-Treasury Building in Wall street, the Equitable Building and the City Hall respectively. They were made by Commodore John G. Walker for the use of the Committee on States.

Citizen George Francis Train Continues His Long Fast.

He Is Not Yery Strong, but His Palse Is Still Vigorous.

There is No Material Change in His Weight Since Yesterday.

George Francis Train began the seventh day of his fast this morning. When THE EVENING WORLD reporter called or him at 9 o'clock the abstaining sexagenarian was diagonally arranged under the coverlid in his usual toilet for this hour of the day. It was the same as yesterday, except for massive boutonniere of smi ax, red pinks and roses which the sage bravely wore on his left "How do you feel this morning ?" inquired the reporter, in cheery, well-fed tones. "Lovely!" halloed Psycho, with vigor and "I tipped the beam last night at the payety. I tipped the beam last night at the bath at the same weight on leaving as on entering—181 pounds. Dr. Miller was surprised at my not lessing more. I haven't touched anything, sithough the morning paper said I was eating 10 cents worth of Lyonnaise potatoes every day. See my tongue ?" and Mr. Train exhibited this weapon of defense. It was slightly coated.

hibited this weapon of defense. It was slightly coated.

Don't you begin to feel weak?" the reporter inquired curiously of the man who had been affronting his stomach one week by the most studied neglect.

"A little. I don't feel like turning somersaults nor boxing with John L. Sullivan though I have had on the gloves with Heenan. As a quasi medical man, you may take my pulse, continued Clitzen George, extending his wrist. "Take my watch and time me. That is the watch the young men of Elgin gave me May 25, 1871, when I was running for the Presidency. There is the White House on it, erased now, as it is erased from my memory."

That is the watch the young men of Eigin gave me May 25, 1871, when I was running for the Fresidency. There is the White House on it, erased now, as it is erased from my memory.

The reporter marked off the healthy throb of Mr. Train's fasting pulse, and after a minute's counting amounced the score, "seventy-nine!" "Not a bad pulse for a man who hasn't not touched food for a week. Last night Dr. Miller raid it was fifty. Yesterday I was first-rate. After you left I went to my post in the park and spont the greater part of the day there. I entertained 100 children.

"Here is a Centennial note amidst the coming chaos. Do you know why just before this celebration they have taken down the telegraph wires and things? They want to leave the city in darkness and destroy it to conceal their frands. Oh, the Centennial note! Yes.

"Is George Washington dead?"

"Is George Washington dead?"

"Then they're getting ready for his funeral over there, and he pointed to their decorations on the Hoffman House.

"To-day, after you go, I shall get out to the Park and sit there reading "Guilderoy," Onida's last novel, till your paper comes out, when I shall drop it to read your story."

"To-night! am going to a reception at Miss. Laura Daintrey's in the Chelses, Shall put on my kness suit. I started her. Had her on my kness manys time when she was a child."

"I wish," said Mr. Train, hotly, "you would inquire of the clerk at the office if he said! was a damned fool for fasting. Why shouldn't a man's stomach and bowels rest for a time every year? The trees and grass and flowers do.

"I shall go on—how long! do not know. Who knows anything of what he will do the next hour? One of the papers said this morning." When he stops talking and esting, what will be left." That was a sneer, wasn't it?

"The sachash and bowels rest for a time every year? The trees and grass and flowers do.

"I shall go on—how long! do not know. Who knows anything of what he wil give a lecture in Chiokering Hall any time and make enough to pay three years board in one night. But my daughter would readily send me more if I needed it. I have just taken a stateroom for her on the La Bourgogne to go over and see the Exposition.

"Why, I built Tacoma, too. Twenty-three thousand there, When I went the only residents were a wildcat, a bald-headed eagle and a brown bear. WHY MEN ARE NERVOUS.

Something for Men to Read and Ponder

Many men who formerly supposed themselves pos-lessed of powerful physiques and strong and strang merces wonder at their feeling of enhaustion, lassitude and lack of inclination for physical and mental exertion. They have a sense of weakness, languor and dulness. This is often especially noticeable in the morning. The night's sleep, which should refresh the system and restore strength and vigor to the nerves and muscles, often leaves them in the morning more tired and ex-hausted than on retring. austed than on retiring.

Where formerly they could endure many consecutive iours of close application of the mind, they now find that he thoughts wander and there is inability to fix the nind for any length of time upon one subject; with thi there is an extremely nervous and irritable condition, dull, cloudy sensation, often accompanied by disagree able feelings in the head and eyes. There is often a bad taste in the mouth in the morn-ing, the vision becomes dim, the memory is impaired and there is frequent disziness. Persons thus affected are often despondent and suffer from gloom and de-pression of the mind. The nerves become so weakened after a time that the least excitement or shock will flush the face or bring on a tremor or trembling, oft-attended by more or less palpitation of the heart.

The patient having these symptoms, or a portion of them, is suffering from nervous debility caused by exhausted nervous vitality from overwork, excesses and abuses, which must inevitably gradually break down the nervous and physical system, unless a prope strengthening and invigorating remedy is used to overcome the weakness and re-establish health and

WAS BUT A WOMAN TRAMP

IDENTIFIED AT THE MORGUE TO-DAY AS " ROSE RUTH, HOMELESS."

An EVENING WORLD reporter went to the Morgue this morning to see the body of the roman who was found dead in the back room of Moran Brothers' saloon, on the southwest cor. ner of Grand street and South Fifth avenue yes terday.

'Joe" Fogarty, the Morgue Keeper, sent one porter. The ghastly depot for the unknown dead was damp and dark when the couple entered. Water dripped mournfully all about, The reporter's guide carried a lantern and led the way. Rough, unpainted pine coffins were assed, with pale faces staring up from their narrow confines. At last the guide stopped at the last coffin in the line.

He held the lantern down, and by its misty gleam the face of the woman could be seen. She was dressed in black. Her hands and feet were small and white. Her hair was long and glossy black, save in a few places, where it had commenced to turn gray.

The reporter was beginning to moralize when his guide cut him off short with the curt re-

The reporter was origining to moranize when his guide cut him off short with the curt remark:

'She was only a bum, sir. Lord be good to ye, it's fortunit she be to die so young. I've seen 'em brought here sixty and seventy years old. This 'm, is no more nor thirty."

Later on in Fogarty's sunny office be said the woman had been recognized by a female convict working at Believue Hospital as Rose Ruth. May Edwards was the name of the woman who identified her.

May did not know much about her.

'Was she married?' Miss Edwards was asked. The young lady looked in pittying wonder at the reporter.

'Darned if I know," she said. 'She knocked around town with a fellow, but whether they were married or not did not bother their friends much, and I guess trouble them very little.' concluded Miss Edwards.

Rose Rutt was alive and very much intoxicated when she reamed by Moran's saloon yesterday morning about 7 o'clock.

Afbert Harris, a night watchman employed at the Broadway stables, was just going out of the saloon.

Afbert Harris, a night watchman employed at the Broadway stables, was just going out of the saloon.

He secosted the woman and invited her in to have a drink.

She accepted.

They sat in the one small room behind the saloon. Barkgeper Edward Gibbons did not wait on them, but his assistant, a boy, did, and brought them liquor as often as they wanted it.

About 10 o'clock Harris reeled into the saloon and insulted a young soldier who was standing at the bar.

"You shut up." Barkeeper Gibbons said.

About 10 o'clock Harris reeled into the saloon and insulted a young soldier who was standing at the bar.

'You shut up," Barkeeper Gibbons said.
'I won't and you can't make me, "retorted Harris, drawing a big knife.

Thereupon Mr. Gibbons, as he naively put it, "lost his temper, and I wiped him several times across the head with a club that I always keep behind the bar for just such customers," says Mr. Gibbons.

Harris went out and did not pay for the drinks which he and the woman had.
Mr. Gibbons indignantly denies that he fired Harris out.

'He went out quietly after I clubbed him," Mr. Gibbons states.

Shortly after the barkeeper went in to see the woman. He found her asle p.

Several men went and looked at her and said it was a pity that Harris should leave her to shift for hers I'. Once she slipped off the chai: on the floor.

Mr. Gibbons gallantly picked her up and put the floor.

Mr. Gibbons gallantly picked her up and put her on the chair again.

"I did not like to put her out because there is a church near here, and it would look bad to see her coming out of here drunk," he stated.

Once more Mrs. Ruth slipped off her chair and lay in a heap on the floor.

Mr. Gibbons was too tired to pick her up just then, as there was a rush of customers in the place. About 2 o'clock in the afternoon he went to "set her up" again, and then found that she had died in the mean time.

This made her so much easier to handle.

A policeman was called and she was sent to the station-house and thence to the Morgus.

Mr. Harris lives near the saloon.

He went home and slept "it off " yesterday and was at work again last night.

A policeman found him last night and told him to be at the Coroner's office to-day. He was into Moran's pright and early this morning and hurried Mr. Gibbons up for a drink after apologizing for "the little trouble" he made in the place yesterday. Mr. Gibbons said;

"Oh, that is all right."

Such a little matter as a customer trying to stab a bartender does not trouble a man like Mr. Gibbons, who has to work in that part of town.

Rabbed by Her Brother.

Mrs. Agnes Neill charged her brother, Charles McElwane, nineteen years old, with having stolen $70 from her while visiting her yester-day, and at her request Judge Duffy, in the Jef-ferson Market Court, sent the youth to the Isl-and for six months.

President Curran Surprised. The members of the St. Paul's Lyceum Sc ciety, of Brooklyn, gave a surprise party last evening to Mr. Eugene Curran, their President, at his residence, 11 Wyckoff street, All of the members, some fifty in number, were present, and a most enjoyable time was had, the dancing continuing until the early hours of the morning.

JOHN NORTON SURVIVED MICHAEL BUT A SINGLE DAY.

Charlton street, in which Civil Justice Michael Norton passed the latter years of his life, was this morning visited by throngs of friends and admirers of the dead leader, who came to take a last look at his face and to condole with his family.

family.

Judge Norton was one of the most popular of men and civic officers, and he is mourned by all classes in his district.

The funeral, it has been decided, will take place from the house to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock. The remains will be taken to 8t. Anthony's Church, on Sullivan street, near Houston, where solemn requiem mass will be performed. The interment will be in Calvary Cemetery.

Oak street station, had fished him out of the river.

"That is not sufficient evidence to convict Carroll," said Justice Powers.

"We have his confession that he jumped from the bridge on a bet," returned the officer.

"But Carroll denies that now," rejoined his counsel, and if you have no evidence before the Court to prove his guilt, I most respectfully ask for my client's discharge."

Justice Powers adjourned the hearing until tomorrow, and the officers were directed to make an effort to secure the attendance of the tng boat captain who saved Carroll from drowning.

EUGENE HYDE'S FATAL FALL

Eugene A. Hyde, a broker at 38 East Twelfth street, was found unconscious at the foot of the stairs in his boarding-house at 2 o'clock this morning.

He was heard to let himself in at about 1.30 and must have fallen over the stairway baluster on his way up to his room on the fourth floor. At St. Vincent's Hospital it was found that his skull was fractured and that he could not live.

Mr. Hyde was about forty-five years old, and was a commercial traveller for A. Schilling & Co., & Worth street, and other houses. He came from Bridgeport, Conn., where he is thought to have relatives. He has been an active member of the Seventh Regiment for the past eleven years.
